Open Source Design

Bringing great design to Open Source Software

We are a community of designers and developers pushing more open design processes and improving the user experience and interface design of open source software.

We write articles, run a job board, put on events, provide resources, and present talks targeted at developers and designers interested in working and designing in Open Source.

Read more about our goals and frequently asked questions. If you are interested in contributing, check out the section on our site for that. Also join our organization on GitHub and our forum.

Open Source Design

Connecting design and open source

We are a community of designers and developers pushing more open design processes and improving the user experience and interface design of open source software.

This Riot community is a hub for the design channels of open source projects, so people can see which software to get involved with, and making it easy for designers to exchange, especially in the #opensource channel.

To get involved more, please check out our website at opensourcedesign.net, join our forum, contribute at our GitHub organization, donate to our Open Collective, check our job board, or spread the word via Twitter!
